Deacon Palmer Award PGA Pacific Northwest Section: Ryan Cutter, PGA at Green Meadow Country Club Helena, MT

The PGA of America established the Deacon Palmer Award, named after Arnold Palmer's late father who overcame personal obstacles to succeed as a PGA Professional, in 2014. The Award bestows special recognition upon a PGA Professional who personally displays outstanding integrity, character and leadership in the effort to overcome a major obstacle in their life.

Ryan Cutter, PGA is starting a non-profit known as the All Abilities Golf Academy and it's goal is to provide easy access and opportunities in golf for everyone. Cutter is the only double amputee PGA Professional in the nation, and to get his organization off the ground he is soliciting donations for the 100 Hole Marathon put on by the PGA's Pacific Northwest Region. "A lot of golf in one day," Cutter said.

"It's pretty brutal, especially with no legs."

The PGA Golf Management University Program provides extensive opportunities for player development for aspiring PGA Professionals. Offered at only 17 universities nationwide, the program allows students such as Cutter to earn a degree and gain skills to succeed in golf. Cutter ultimately received his accounting degree as well as his PGA membership from The University of Colorado Colorado Springs.
