

Spencer Harris Assistant Professor, UCCS College of Business received his Ph.D. in sport policy and sport management from Loughborough University, England. He researches the governance of sport, and the sport policy process with emphases on the legacies of major events such as the Olympic Games. Spencer has worked in various academic positions in the UK and USA since 2008. Prior to academia Spencer worked for 16 years in community sports development, in roles such as sport development manager within local government, Project Coordinator for Right to Play Uganda, and Head of Performance for Sport England.